

Martin Law Ranked 13 on “Best Place to Work” List

Martin Law has been ranked number 13 on the Philadelphia Business Journal's 2011 Best Places to Work. This list includes about fifty companies in the Delaware Valley Region, ranging from small businesses to large corporations. Martin Law is proud to have been listed at number 13 on the medium sized company list. This is Martin Law first year to be named on the Best Places to Work list, which we could not have done without the help of our amazing and dedicated employees.

Martin Law partner, Al Carlson attended a private cocktail and networking event that revealed the rankings and awarded to top ranked companies on Thursday, October 13. Attending with Mr. Carlson were Social Security Disability Paralegal, Denisse Sanchez; HR Manager, Tanya Rapone and Marketing Manager, April Colby. Look for our profile in the special print supplement on Friday, October 14.

Martin Law was nominated for this honor earlier in the summer and our employees were asked to fill out an anonymous online survey. This survey rated employee satisfaction in numerous categories including team effectiveness, which is an extremely necessary component of an effective law firm. Our survey results were measured against comparable sized companies, eventually resulting in Martin Law being ranked as one of 2011 Best Places to Work.
