

Attorney Joe Huttemann Authored “Workers’ Comp Certification” Article

Partner Joe Huttemann recently authored an article on “The New Workers’ Compensation Certification: Breaking Ground for the Pennsylvania Bar Association” for The Legal Intelligencer, the oldest law journal in the United States. Joe’s article reviewed this landmark new process for attorneys and its expected impact on the profession...not just for attorneys who practice Workers’ Compensation, but those in other practice areas in Pennsylvania, for whom this process might serve as a pilot program. Not only did Joe Huttemann review this process and its impact, but partner Matt Wilson served on the actual certification committee and helped to shape and plan the process and its implementation in the state.
